NEWS OF ALEXANDRIA

Fiftieth Year Observed at Grace Episcopal Church.

SPECIAL MUSIC BY THE CHOIR

Rev. Edgar Carpenter Preaches at Morning Service and Dr. S. A. Wallis Delivers Address in Evening—Business Men to Consider Land Proposal—Mrs. Sutton Dead.

F. Clinton Knight, 65 King street, Alexandria, Va., is authorized agent and carrier for The Washington Herald. The Herald will be delivered daily and Sunday to any address in Alexandria for 5 cents a month.

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU.
65 King Street.
Alexandria, Va., Oct. 16.—The fiftieth anniversary of the consecration of Grace Episcopal Church was observed to-day with appropriate services.

Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of the church, occupied the pulpit at the morning services and gave a historical sketch of the church. A brief address on the life of the first pastor, Rev. Dr. Sprague, was delivered by Rev. Dr. S. A. Wallis, of the Episcopal Theological Seminary. Special music was given by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Raymond Hulsh, who was assisted by Mrs. William Woolfs and Mrs. Thomas A. Hulsh. Letters of regret, owing to their inability to attend, were received from Rev. Henry T. Sharp, of Baltimore, and Rev. Clarence E. Hall, of Seaford, Del. This church was organized in 1860. Services for a period of one year were held in the old Lyceum Hall, at Prince and Washington streets.

Business men and others interested will meet Tuesday night in the rooms of the chamber of commerce to consider a proposition to purchase a tract of land in the northwestern section of the city. It is proposed to have modern dwelling houses erected on the site.

Mrs. Sutton, wife of John W. Sutton, died this morning at her home, 197 Gibson street. She was a daughter of Douglas Wood. Besides her husband, several children survive. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

Alexandria delegates from R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, will attend the annual meeting of the grand camp in Norfolk, October 18, 19, and 20. The delegates include the commander and past commander, together with B. C. Hall, W. H. Yateman, Charles S. Taylor, and Jesse Murray.

Rally day services at the Methodist Episcopal Church South to-day were largely attended. Rev. H. M. Carter, pastor, preached a sermon, taking for his subject "A deserted house." Special services were inaugurated this evening, which will be continued for a period of two weeks, every evening, with the exception of Saturday.

A eulogy and entertainment will be held to-morrow night by the Young Men's Sociality League, at its hall in Duke street. Many handsome prizes will be awarded.

P. B. Ward, a clerk at the city post-office for several years, has resigned to accept a position with the Norfolk and Western Railroad at Roanoke, Va.

A number of Alexandria fans left tonight for Philadelphia to witness the games between the Cubs and the Athletics.

A special grand jury will meet in the Corporation Court at 9 o'clock Wednesday, when three cases will be presented for consideration.

WHITE ILL AT END OF AVIATION WEEK

Large Crowd at Benning for Last Flights.

As the monoplane was not repaired in time for the flights at Benning yesterday, the proposed race of Claude Grahame-White and Clifford Harmon was not run. A large crowd witnessed the biplane flights.

During one of Mr. White's flights he threw several hundred booklets, containing information about the Aeronautical Reserve, to the crowd, and a lively scramble ensued among the spectators, who were anxious to learn what the aviator was dropping as he circled past the grand stand.

The exhibition was not marked with any extraordinary feats. Mr. White was ill, but his five flights were received with enthusiasm. Mr. Harmon made only one flight, in which he raced an automobile.

No Passenger Trips.

Owing to the condition of his machine, the English aviator did not attempt to carry any passengers. He and Mr. Harmon invited Capt. Charles J. Fox, of the Aeronautical Reserve, and J. Lynn Yeagle, of the National Aviation Company, to fly with them at the Belmont Park meet in New York next week, when the Washingtonians will be among the spectators.

Mr. White will leave for New York to-day, and his machines will follow him in a few days. He was disappointed with the attendance during his exhibition, but was elated at the treatment and the entertainments given in his honor by the different scientific clubs and the National Press Club.

Fails to Make Lecture.

Mr. White did not lecture at the Columbia Theater last night. The lecture was scheduled to take place at 8:30, and a few minutes after 9 o'clock Barry Buckley, one of the managers of the lecture bureau, announced that the lecture would not be given.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles, who was to present, Claude Grahame-White, Clifford B. Harmon, the New York amateur, and John Barry Ryan, of New York, the commodore of the Aeronautical Reserve, were behind the scenes when the announcement was made.

In his announcement Mr. Buckley paid a high tribute to Mr. White as an aviator and a gentleman. Immediately after the announcement, a medal was presented to Mr. Grahame-White in one of the dressing rooms by Gen. Miles.

Some of the 1,175 teachers in London unemployed at the end of last year had become typists and envelope addressers, while one became a cab driver.

SNAP MARRIAGE AROUSES CLERGY

She took his money for this. She obtained money under false pretenses, broke her promise to God, helped another to sin, taught her sisterhood wrong, and left a blot on her shameless memory. "The women of Rockville," he continued, "have asked the ministers of this city to help them keep out such riff-raff as those who took part in this disgraceful episode. The women of Washington will not be compelled to do so, because the ministers here are going to take the initiative."

"Disgraceful Escape." "In the first place," said Rev. Zed H. Copp, of Bethany Chapel, last night, "such a marriage is a disgrace to Washington. In the second place, it is a prostitution of the most sacred institution we have. In the third place, it is a scandalous escape, and the people who take part in such a transgression shall never enter into heaven without they make amends."

Rev. Dr. John Reid Shannon, of the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. Church, "I think Miss Eugenie Adams is guilty of a grave infraction of every law of man and God with which the incident had to deal. It was unacceptably disgraceful and outrageous. The man is guilty as well as the woman."

Rabbi Simon said: "We in America ought to take the stand that every cheapening of the marriage vows is a cheapening of American dignity and citizenship. The burlesque of marriage is something more than the mere province of an individual church can deal with. The nation ought to consider the conservation of purity, fidelity, and cleanliness of more importance than the conservation of forests and coal mines."

"Should Destroy Law."

Rev. T. S. Childs, of Chevy Chase All Saints' Episcopal Church, said: "No good woman would contract such a marriage. No good citizen would countenance such disgraceful goings on. No good can result for anybody from it. If the law permits a marriage of this kind, it ought to be destroyed at once. It is dangerous. A bad example has been set."

Rev. William T. Russell, rector St. Patrick's Church: "The whole thing is disgusting."

Rev. E. H. Swen, of Capital Baptist Church, said:

FALL FROM TREE BREAKS LEG TWICE

William Mead, nineteen years old, of 1307 Third street northwest, fell out of a chestnut tree at Cherrydale, Va., yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, and his right leg was broken in two places.

He was brought to Washington on an electric car, which was met by the seventh precinct patrol wagon at Thirty-six and M streets, and from there he was taken to the Georgetown University Hospital.

"Gathering chestnuts is an enjoyable pastime," said one of Mead's friends, who served as a crutch after the accident, "but it seems like something always happens when it's Sunday. My scruples against hunting and fishing on Sunday have always served me as a warning. I had told Mead to come down from that tree just a few minutes before he fell. He'll not hunt chestnuts on Sunday again for some time, I'm sure."

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Washington, Sunday, Oct. 16, 1910—8 p. m.

The position of the tropical disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico cannot be definitely determined from observations at Weather Bureau stations, but reports by wireless from vessels in the Gulf indicate that the storm is moving westward and that the center is already a considerable distance west of the Florida Keys. The sea swell at Key West is gradually diminishing, while a moderate swell on the north-west coast at Galveston has been observed during the past twenty-four hours.

The weather has cleared in New England. Showers have again occurred in the Middle Atlantic region, and they have extended eastward to the Middle Atlantic. With the exception of the rain in Florida, the weather is now fair quite generally in all sections east of the Rocky Mountains. Moreover, throughout that area the temperatures, as a rule, are exceptionally high for the season. Maximum readings of 80 degrees were reported at Pierre and Huron, S. Dak. There is a widespread area of maximum temperatures of 80 degrees and above reaching from the eastern slope of the Rockies to the Middle and South Atlantic coasts.

As anticipated in the forecast issued Saturday night, the weather has cleared in the North Atlantic off New England, and the winds have shifted to westerly. These winds have diminished and are now moderate. Fair weather will continue for the next two or three days, with moderate westerly shifting to northwesterly, winds along the North Atlantic coast, with the exception of a tendency of the wind to shift to north of west, as the course is in a northeasterly direction.

Unsettled weather will prevail in the East Gulf region, but elsewhere east of the Rockies the weather will be mostly fair during the next two days.

The temperature will be somewhat lower in the New England and northern portion of the Middle Atlantic States on Monday, and warm weather in the West will be followed by cooler air from the Upper Mississippi Valley by Tuesday or Tuesday night.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Gulf coast from Florida westward, including the Louisiana coast.

The winds along the New England coast will be moderate northwesterly, becoming variable; on the Middle Atlantic coast moderate variable; on the South Atlantic coast moderate northeasterly; on the West Gulf coast moderate northerly; on the Lower Lakes light variable; on the Upper Lakes moderate variable, mostly southerly.

Steamers departing Monday for European ports will have moderate northwesterly, with fair weather, the Grand Banks.

HERALD FANS OFF FOR QUAKER CITY

Ten Popular Rooters Won't Overlook Single Bet.

Ten tickled-to-death baseball fans of Washington will get together at Union Station this morning, and at 9 o'clock their train will pull out for Philadelphia, where they will see the Athletics and the Cubs battle in the first two games of the world's series as guests of The Washington Herald.

"This is going to be some party," exclaimed several of the popularity winners last night. "But we'll all be there with the jingles rattling when the band plays. Some of the boys are leaning toward the Cubs, but the majority of us kind o' like the Athletics in this set-to, and the wise money will go down on the outfit that looks good when we hit Philadelphia."

These ten popular diamond rooters did not have much time to write opinions on religious ethics yesterday, for their friends came around all day and gave them advice on how to be world's series spectators and a thousand reasons why such and such a team hasn't got a show—not a chance. (Apologies to Peet.)

Anyway, this Capital crowd isn't going to overlook a single bet in Quakertown, and when they come home you'll hear nice accounts of what happened.
